Don't be ashamed of having a big and generous heart.

Brothers and Sisters. Do not be ashamed of having a big and generous heart, never be ashamed of crying, of suffering, of being men and women of peace, of being humble.

Never be ashamed of being poor in spirit. Only the poor in spirit will reach bliss, only they are blessed, only those who are blessed will achieve happiness.

Never be ashamed of being generous with God, with the Church, with your brothers in need.

This Sunday the Gospel tells us who the blessed are, shows us the path to true happiness (the blessed). But the path of the beatitudes is not easy to understand, much less to follow. To understand the beatitudes, one must see the person of Christ.

"Blessed are the poor." Because only the poor are capable of understanding God, because only God is their wealth, only God understands and consoles them, and only God they hope.

Let us remember that God is faithful and always is and will be with his children and especially with the poor. "Blessed are your poor, for yours is the Kingdom of God."

God is generous and expects us to be generous. And when we are generous, He is more, much more than we are.

God wants you happy, Holy Mary, our heavenly mother wants you happy, the Church wants you happy and I pray that you are very happy, but with that happiness that only God gives.

Today we all smile because God is our wealth and our happiness.
